BOTH SIDES PREPARE FOR A BIG BATTLE

Waiting for the Cold to Abate---Japs Make Disastrous Night Attack.

Headquarters of General Oku, Manchuria, Feb. 3.—The Russian force remains opposite the Japanese left wing. There is occasionally firing but no serious attacks have been attempted. Some movement is noticeable among the Russians along the entire front, and bombardment of the Japanese lines is continued but the Japanese seldom reply.

Both armies are preparing for battle when the weather moderates. The temperature is now thirteen degrees below zero.

Japs Get Worst of Night Attack.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—A dispatch reports severe fighting at Chennalid Pass. The Japanese made a night attack on the Russian position and outflanked the Russians, but afterwards a stronger force compelled the Japanese to retire. The Japanese loss is a hundred killed and many wounded. The Russians lost fifteen killed and thirty-seven wounded.

Russian Companies Wiped Out.

Tokio, Feb. 3.—Details of the recent battle place Japanese losses at seven thousand. After their defeat the Russians retreated across the Hun and razed several thousand villages and began a concentration of defenses. Several companies of the Russians have been wiped out in the battle and skirmishing that have occurred during the last few days.

Japs Admit 7,000 Casualties.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The Japanese

nese legation has received a report made by Field Marshal Oyama giving details of the fierce fighting January 25 to the 29th, when the Russians were driven to the right of Hun river. Oyama says the enemy consisted of at least seven divisions, one of which was a cavalry division. The Japanese casualties were about 7,000. Prisoners state that four regiments of Russian infantry were preparing for battle when the weather of these regiments were reduced to from twenty to thirty men each. Oyama expresses the opinion that Russian casualties must have totaled at least 10,000.

Big Attack Looked For.

Headquarters General Oku, Feb. 3.—The Russian force remains opposite the Japanese left wing, occasionally firing, but no serious attacks are attempted. Some movement of the Russians is noticeable along the entire front and bombardment of the Japanese lines is continued at intervals. The Japanese seldom reply.

It is evident that both armies are preparing for battle when the weather moderates. Temperature was 13 below zero (fahrenheit) last night.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—General Kurapatka reports that a Japanese attack on Chantan was repulsed. It is stated on reliable authority that General Grippenburg was asked to resign, as he refused to be recalled.

THE OFFICIAL LIST SHOWS 300 KILLED

In Warsaw Since the Trouble There Began.

A Fight Is Today Reported in Progress at Lodz, Poland, Between Troops and Strikers.

RUSSIANS BEING BLACKMAILED.

Lodz, Feb. 3.—In the conflict between the troops and strikers at Konitz factory today the soldiers fired, killing six persons and wounding forty-eight.

Over 300 Killed.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—An official list of those killed since the disturbance began in Warsaw, includes over three hundred names, besides many who are still unidentified.

Germany Preparing to Grab.

London, Feb. 3.—According to the Times' Pekin correspondent Germany is seizing every opportunity to tighten her grip on Canton because apparently she realizes Russia's position is hopeless and that after the war opportunities for aggression in China will be less favorable than hitherto.

With this fact in view, the correspondent says, Germany is extending her influence to purely domestic affairs and insisting that the appointment of governor of the province must be subject to Germany's approval; in fact, following exactly the procedure which Russia adopted in Manchuria.

Citizens Are Blackmailed.

London, Feb. 3.—Wholesale blackmail by the police of Warsaw is alleged by a correspondent of the Mail who asserts that respectable citizens are stopped in the streets at night and arrested unless they give officers money. It is also charged the police have been brutally whipping prisoners and then liberating them on payment of $5 to a police sergeant. The correspondent adds that the condition of prisons in Warsaw is scandalous, crowds of prisoners being herded in small cells devoid of all sanitary appliances.

COMMISSION MEETS.

Postmaster F. M. Fisher left at noon for Louisville, to attend the final meeting of the directors of the Louisville Purchase commission for Kentucky, of which board he is a member. The commissioners report will show on hand out of the funds raised for the state, between $25,000 and $30,000, and no member has spent all the $250 for expenses allowed each one. This speaks well for the board especially when it is considered how successful it made the Kentucky building.

The closing banquet will take place at Seelbach's tomorrow, and Mr. A. Y. Ford, president of the commission, will be presented with a handsome chest of silver.

Wapakoneta, Ohio, Feb. 3.—Two coonsters, one belonging to Landlord Koenig, of the Palm hotel, and the other to Charles Engel, of the Engel cafe, became involved in a fight in the rear of the hotel.

The two birds fought fiercely, and soon attracted quite an audience, one of the most interested spectators being the Engel family horse, which was grazing in the lot.

Suddenly, concluding that the fight had gone far enough, the horse separated the two combatants with his nose, and the coonsters were compelled to adjourn the contest.

FERRYMAN'S ESCAPE FROM ICY WATERS

W. S. Norden Floats Quite a Distance in Ice.

His Skiff Had to Be Pulled From the Ice by a Tug Before He Was Extricated.

HE WAS EXPOSED FOUR HOURS.

Mr. W. S. Norden, the Clark river ferryman, had a narrow escape this morning near the mouth of Island Creek.

He had started across the water in a skiff, but got wedged in the ice and floated until he reached Island creek. He was gorged in and nearly frozen when found and had a narrow escape from drowning, as well.

He cried for help when his hands and legs were too numb to aid him in getting out of the ice, and Mr. Wm. Herring and a companion discovered him, having been sent out to search. A tug boat had to be secured to pull him skiff out of the heavy gorge. He was in the ice from 8 o'clock this morning until noon.

He was reported much better at press time this afternoon and had been taken home.

PRESIDENT PALMA'S CABINET RESIGNED

His Allegiance to the Moderate Party the Cause.

Cabinet Officers Informed That They Were Not Affected, and Resignations Were Declined.

CHANGES ARE IN PROSPECT

Havana, Feb. 3.—All five members of the cabinet visited President Palma yesterday and presented their resignations. They stated they desired since Palma had announced his allegiance to the Moderate party to open the way for him to make whatever selections for cabinet officers he chose, under new conditions.

Palma courteously but emphatically declined to consider the resignations and added that his joining the Moderate party was purely a personal act and did not necessarily affect his cabinet. The cabinet members, however, are well aware that there will be changes after consultations between Palma and the Moderate leaders.

It is authoritatively reported that resignations of Secretary of the Treasury Montes, Secretary of Public Instruction Canelo and Secretary of the Interior Yero will shortly be accepted. Secretary of Public Works and Agriculture Diaz is likely to remain in office and probably also Secretary of State and Justice Ortiz. Neither of the latter has professed any political allegiance.

MORE SNOW FALLS DURING THE NIGHT

Mercury Went to 7 Degrees Above Last Evening.

Cold Wave Severe in Many Parts of the Country—53 Below Zero in One Place.

LITTLE INCONVENIENCE HERE.

More cold and snow—this is the story in a few words. Last night was bitter cold, the minimum being 7 above, six degrees warmer than the night before, but snow began falling about 3 a. m., and continued heavy until 7 or 8 o'clock, when it almost stopped.

The temperature last night didn't change much, and many Paducahans when they arose today were surprised to find several inches of fresh, crisp snow on the ground.

The cold weather appears to be here for at least a day longer, and it has had some effect on business, but not a great deal. The street cars were a little late in getting started today, but this afternoon the city seems to be running smoothly along, little the worse for the cold snap and snow storm.

The snow today interfered little with street car traffic on the principal lines. The company got out its snow car early and the depot line was cleared and cars were running at 7 o'clock. Broadway was also worked and cars running regularly on this line by 7 o'clock.

At the I. C. depot laborers were kept busy from early in the morning clearing away the snow from the platform. Trains were delayed a little and there was but little travel.

Coldest Place in Country.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—The entire north west and middle states will continue in the grasp of the present cold wave for at least four hours longer, according to weather bureau here last night. The coldest spot in the United States yes to information given out by the bureau was Glendive, Mont., where 55 degrees below zero was reported. Other low temperatures reported during the day were: Havre, Mont., 51 below; Battleford, 20; Medicine Hat, 26; Hismark, 20; Devil's Lake, 21. The center of the cold wave is still in North Dakota, but is moving slowly southward and it is not expected to spend its full force in the middle west for several days.

Yesterday was the coldest day of the year in Chicago. The official report showed 14 below and the mean temperature at eight degrees below zero for the day was announced. This is 32 degrees below normal temperature. At nine o'clock the weather bureau thermometer registered 8 below and steadily going lower, with 15 below before morning. Owing to the absence of wind the cold has not been felt as much as is usual in Chicago. Among the poorer classes there is great suffering, but no deaths directly due to the frigid weather have so far been reported.

24 Below at Omaha.

Omaha, Feb. 3.—The bitter cold which has prevailed for 18 hours over Nebraska and Western Iowa continued last night, accompanied in the southern part of Nebraska by snow storm. Minimum in Omaha was 24 below zero, early in the day; at Lincoln, 22; Sioux City 30.

Coldest in Years in Ohio Valley.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 3.—The coldest weather in years prevails throughout the Ohio Valley. There is much suffering and traffic is completely tied up.

ROASTED TO DEATH IN A BURNING CAR

George P. Ashley an I. C. Conductor Perished at Wickliffe.

He Was At Odds With Laborers and It Is Believed He Met With Fatal Play.

HIS CHARRED REMAINS FOUND

George P. Ashley, superintendent of construction for W. J. Oliver, the railroad contractor who is building the extension for the Illinois Central and Mobile and Ohio railroads at Wickliffe, Ky., met death yesterday in a horrible manner. The car occupied by Ashley and his bookkeeper, Roy McClellan, as an office and temporary residence was destroyed by fire and the former burned to death.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is presumed to have caught from an overheated stove. Ashley and McClellan occupied a small room near one end of the car as a bedroom. McClellan was awakened yesterday morning by smoke in the bedroom and discovered that the other end of the car was in flames. He went to the bed occupied by Ashley and found it empty. He then made his escape through a window in the bedroom supposing that Ashley had already escaped.

It was learned later that Ashley had not been seen and his charred remains were found in the smoldering ashes, judging from the place where the body was found Ashley was in the private office adjoining the front office when the end came. Around one finger of his charred hand was found a key ring on which were the keys to the safe which contained the money used in paying the laborers. The safes were in the room where Ashley succumbed. The books were kept in the same room and it is believed by some that he attempted to open the safes and extract something, although the iron boxes were both fireproof. Others believe that he went into the room to get the books, but that does not explain the presence of the keys in his hand.

A revolver was found in the ashes indicating that it was in the forward end of the car where the fire was supposed to have originated. Its presence there cannot be explained and there are many who believe that Ashley met with foul play.

It is known that some of the workmen were unfriendly to Ashley and his employers and it is reported that some of them made threats that they would blow up the car. It is charged that the men are poorly paid for the class of work they are doing and that they are charged exorbitant prices for supplies from a company.

Mr. J. A. Wood who lives within a few steps of the car, says that he saw the fire when it first began breaking out at one end of the car and he could not see any reason why Ashley could not escape if he was in the car alive when the alarm was given.

Ashley's remains were taken to Louisville in Albin, N. C., for interment.

GURGE CAUSED RISE.

Attempt to Create An Ice Gorge Has Been Abandoned Temporarily.

Cincinnati, Feb. 3.—The arrangements to have towboats go to Coney Island to create an ice gorge so as to save property below was abandoned temporarily. The zero weather formed a big gorge in the stream near the mouth of Mill Creek, and the harbor boat Relief was put to work breaking up the gorge there. No work of forming a gorge above the city will be attempted until the Relief attends to the ice below Cincinnati. As a result of the ice jam below the city the current in the river has almost disappeared, and back water today indicated an artificial rise of several inches in the Cincinnati harbor.

WORSE THAN EVER

ICE BECOMES THICKER—ONE BOAT FROZEN UP.

All the Boats Have Had to Stop Except the Tennessee Steamers.

The river front presents a forlorn look, but not more than the hundreds of river men in the city who are idle, and with absolutely no prospect for work for some time to come.

The gauge reads 6.7 and standing; rather cloudy and snowing, with fresh winds. The temperature is about 15 degrees above and the ice has not seem to have thinned out much, and new ice is forming every foot. The snow settled on the big floes and the river is a beautiful sight, especially in sunlight.

The boats are laying up and only a few are working. This little ice is keeping the harbor clear of ice and has a job. The Charles Turner was frozen up in the ice in the Cumberland river yesterday, and the crew came home to wait until the ice melts in. The Lydia started out yesterday, but had to lay up on the island. The Kentucky is due in today, but she is about the only boat, with the Charleston, now running, the Cowling having quit on account of the ice.

COL. A. J. DECKER THE NEW PRESIDENT

Chosen Last Night by Directors of Commercial Club.

A Membership Committee Has Been Appointed to Increase the Organization.

SEC. THOMPSON RE-ELECTED.

Col. A. J. Decker, the well-known business leader, was last night elected president of the Paducah Commercial Club. He did not expect the honor, and consequently did not have his committee ready, but will appoint them as soon as possible, and the only one he has thus far designated is a committee on membership which is composed of Messrs. Joseph L. Friedman, Ben Welle, Wallace Well, Will Hummel and H. E. Thompson.

The officers chosen at the meeting of the directors of the club are:

A. J. Decker, president;
George C. Wallace, vice-president;
Ben Welle, treasurer;
H. E. Thompson, secretary.

Col. Decker is one of the most liberal, progressive men in Paducah, and is a hard worker. He will make an excellent president, and with the co-operation of the club, great things may be expected. The members all seem anxious to have the club begin an aggressive campaign in favor of many things needed by the city, and it is likely that the officers will outline a plan of work that cannot fail to be of great benefit to the city.

Mr. H. E. Thompson has made an excellent secretary since he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late George Dalms, and is not only thoroughly familiar with every phase of the work, but is a live, active man as well, and will be of inestimable service to the club in its work.

She leaves besides her parents, Dr. Elliott and wife, one sister, Mrs. Nuckols, of Woodville, and two brothers, Messrs. Thomas Elliott, of Arkansas, and James Elliott, of Texas. Charles Grosshart Chained He Was Violently Assaulted.

Charles Grosshart, a ship carpenter residing near Third and Adams streets, went to the city hall last night, and claimed he had been assaulted by a crowd of men near Ninth and Washington streets.

His head had several large bumps on it and he was in a serious condition. He stated that the crowd of men had simply attacked him, knocked him down and then kicked him. Dr. Robert Rivers dressed the injury and sent Grosshart home.

The police have been unable to learn anything about the matter but are investigating the case.

Dutiful Thought.

"You can not judge a man solely by his acts. You must probe deeper to the spirit which actuates him."

The Weather.

Snow flurries and continued cold
tonight and Saturday.

Owensboro has just let a contract for part of the pipes to be used in building a water works, and the amount is $75,000. Add to this the additional cost of other necessary piping, pumps, machinery, labor and interest on the bonds, to say nothing of having the streets and sidewalks torn up for two or three years, and you will be able to realize, in part, the manifold beauties of trying to have a city own a water works when there is already one furnishing satisfactory water at rates as cheap as they could reasonably be expected.
A city that has no water system would probably do well to build one itself, if the plant could be operated without the aid and influence of politicians and grafters, but a city of any size that has elected to allow private capital to establish and operate a water works, and build up a first class and satisfactory system, would probably do well to let well enough alone.

The members of the Kentucky legislature who have frittered away nearly a month at the rate of about $1,000 a day juggling with the simple task of deciding on a new capitol site, may know their business, but they would have a difficult time convincing the people of it. Their prolonged session is a disgrace to the Democratic majority which certainly could have settled the question long ago had it so desired. Even if there were nothing to suggest graft in the capitol affair, there is the most glaring proof of incompet-ency in dealing with even the simplest public questions.

Democratic papers are laying great stress on the report that a Denver Democrat identified one of the alleged fraudulent ballots, as one he cast himself. As the Democrats are supposed to have cast nearly all the fraudulent ballots, however, it is not very remarkable that one Democrat happened to be able to describe and pick out one of the ballots he put in. The dispatches do not state whether the Democrat picked out any of the other ballots he cast or not. It is presumed he was discreet enough not to.

The Sun is, has always been, and always will be, friendly to every legitimate enterprise that schemes of amateur promoters, and other forms of skin-game. Questionable methods, when fully exposed, will never appeal to any class of good citizens. If it is necessary to be more explicit, it will not be our funeral.

There was no revolution in Russia, and from indications will be none. A vast difference exists between a mob in a city and an uprising of the people. The time may come when the people rise up and overthrow the Russian government, but they will have to be educated up to the degree of intelligence essential to a full realization of their wrongs before they do.

The streets to be paved out of the remainder of the bond money have been selected, and there is no valid reason the two boards should not now rush through the necessary ordinances, advertise for bids, and let the contract before spring, so every good day can be utilized in doing the work. The city is losing money every day the bond funds remain unexpended.

Some of the Democrats in Colorado are shouting "fair play" in the gubernatorial contest. That's what the Republicans are trying to give them, but Colorado Democrats do not seem to recognize fair play when they see it.

The Indiana legislature is going to consider a bill to prevent persons in official positions from using railroad passes. The author of that bill is doubtless merely diverting himself trying to get a little notoriety.

The ground hog was a wise boy.
Jack Frost can bite harder than a mere shadow, and not much persuasion was needed to get him back into his cozy hole.

It is predicted that the Missouri legislature will be unable to elect a United States senator at this session.
This will be good news to the Democrats.

You can sometimes tell how hard a fellow has been hit by the number of lines in his howl.

Somewhere There's A Song.

Never mind, dearie,
When life's going wrong;
Don't you get weary—
Somewhere there's a song!

Out of the sorrow
Comes faith that is strong;
Dream of tomorrow—
Somewhere there's a song!

Money Lending Nations.

An interesting line of economic inquiry relates to the extent to which different nations of the world put their money into other countries.

The foreign investments of Belgium a country having but 6,000,000 inhabitants, and about one-quarter as large an area as Ohio, are estimated at no less than $1,500,000,000.

French capital has been placed in investments outside of France to the amount of $6,000,000,000. Authorities differ widely concerning the amount of British money put into other countries, some estimates being as low as $6,000,000,000, not counting British possessions, like India and British colonies. Yet a few years ago the London stock exchange calculated the probable total of the foreign investments of the English people at $17,000,000,000.
Germany is believed to have half as much money invested as Belgium.
Russia is the great debtor nation of Europe, and in that country billions of dollars of French, Belgian and German money have found employment, at greater or less risk, and with widely varying returns.

COURT AFFAIRS ARE GETTING VERY DULL

Judge Rehl Today Granted Mandamus Against Trustees.

Cold Weather Almost Does Away Entirely With the Police Court—
One Case Today.

VERY FEW ARRESTS ARE MADE.

Circuit Court.

Circuit Judge Wm. Reed this morning filed an opinion in the mandamus suit brought by Adam Temple against school district No. 6, and the trustees, Messrs. Marvin Anderson,
C. J. Lee and G. S. Harper.

The judgment sustained the pleading of the plaintiff in the mandamus suit and ordered the trustees to make a levy in that district sufficient to pay the debt of $312, borrowed money. The levy is to be made from year to year until the entire amount is paid.

In the case of Day against the Palmer Transfer Co., the plaintiff's motion for a new trial was overruled, and an appeal granted.

The case of the Supreme Lodge
Knights of Honor against James W.
Segenfelder, Mrs. Lizzie Tandy, Miss
Annie Jackson and Mrs. Mary E.
Morgan, was decided this morning.

The suit was a friendly one to decide on the distribution of a $2,000 insurance policy in the order between the heirs of the late Fred Hess. Mrs. Morgan claimed a portion of the policy, being a sister of the deceased. The court decided that the money go to the first three defendants. The deceased left his sister other property.

Attorney John K. Hendrick is this afternoon sitting as a special judge in the case of J. W. Fristoe against H. R. Wood and others. It is a suit over land.

Wanted in Earlinton.
John Edwards, colored, was arrested last night by Detectives Moore and Baker as a result of a telephone message from Earlinton, Ky., saying that the negro was wanted there for selling whiskey without a license, and was thought to be here. The plain clothes men found him in a house on South Twelfth street. He had been working for the N. C. & St. L.

Police Court.

Police Judge Sanders thinks the weather has affected his business.

Only one case was before him
this morning, that against Joseph Woody, charged with selling a stove that did not belong to him and representing it as his own. The court heard the evidence but left it open until tomorrow.

"I hope not, captain. If you are king's men you maintain that you are upholding the law. If you are parliamentarians you swear the same thing."

"We swear not at all."

"Then I surmise you are no king's men. But in any case, until one or other of you has declared war against Scotland or until Scotland has declared war against either of you, or both, you meddle with a free citizen of Scotland at your peril."

"It is perhaps wisest to indulge in no threats."

"I am not indulging in any. I am stating a plain, uncontrovertible fact that would be held by none so staunchly as by General Cromwell himself."

"Then keep your dissertations on law until you see the general, which is like to happen before we are done with you."

"Nothing would give me greater pleasure than to have a discourse with that distinguished man. He is a fighter after my own heart, and I understand he is equally powerful in controversy."

"Second time?"

"To this major Armstrong not only made no objection, but insisted in its full strength. He took off his doublet and thrust it at one of the men who up to this time had held his arms outstretched in a gesture of submission. A third man, attracted by the examination, stepped forward and a fourth took the sword from the hand of the man who had thrust it at the general. The search brought to light some papers which the officer examined, glancing thereby much information regarding the price of cattle."

"The captain gave the papers to a subordinate and directed him to tie to either the now took from his belt a folded sheet, opened it, and read its contents with care, glancing now and then at the man before him. Apparently the comparison was to his satisfaction, and he restored the document to its place with a grunt of approval."

"Is that ready? Tell him to come here," he said to the subordinate, who instantly disappeared, emerging from among the outposts shortly with a young man on a fine horse, evidently a racer before that sport was abolished. The animal was impatient to be off, but the young fellow on his back curbed its eagerness with a master hand as he led to the saddle. The captain had employed the interval in writing a note of disclaimers, which he now handed to the young horseman.

"Hide hard and give that to General Cromwell as soon as you can. In case you should lose it tell him we have got our man, who crossed the border this morning. Say we are bringing him to Gordon Manor, as directed, and expect to reach there before dusk."

"The youth, without reply or salute, pocketed the paper, shook out the reins and was off like the wind."

"At a word from the captain a bugle call rang out, and his effect was soon apparent. An unaccounted horse was led to the captain, who sprang into his place with the ease of one accustomed to the feat and from the buildings appeared something like a score of mounted troopers."

"Get into your saddles," commanded the captain, addressing Armstrong.

The latter tested the buckling which a soldier had just finished drew up the strap a point, then, with his foot in the stirrup, turned and asked:

"Am I to consider myself a prisoner, sir?"

"Whatever questions you wish to put will be answered presently by one higher in authority than I."

"I must protest against this detention, sir."

"Your protest will doubtless be considered by the officer I referred to."

"General Cromwell, I surmise?"

"Or one delegated by him. Mount! We have far to go."

Armstrong leaped into the saddle, and the troop set off, with the captain at the head and himself in the midst of it. There was no chance of escape, even if he meditated such an attempt, which apparently he did not. The direction pointed south and east, and the man was settling they came to Corbillion Manor, a large country house, which was seemingly the headquarters of a considerable section of the army encamped in the neighborhood. Into a room in this mansion Armstrong was conducted and left under guard, and he was pleased to see by the spread table that there was at least no design on the part of his captors to starve him.

CHAPTER XII.

THE mansion of Corbillion was a large and rambling structure, two stories in height for the most part, although in some places it rose to three, as in others it

As evening drew on the thin crescent of a new moon shed a faint, mysterious light over the scene, as if it were a white sickle hanging up in the sky, useless because there was no harvest in England to reap gave that of death. The dim light outlined the mansion, and the aspect was one of gloom, scarcely troubled by the footfall of a sentinel strolling along the grass in front, carelessly trailing his pike, with nothing of alert military manner about him.

The sentinel stopped in his walk and stood for a moment by the battered, rusted, hissing. Finally in the still night air came to him across the field the beating of horses' hoofs on the hard road. Striding athwart the broken lawn to an open door, he motioned with the butt of his pike, crying:

"Peace within there. The general is coming."

There was an instant hushing of the course song, then a laugh, and when some one in husky tones raised the slow tone of a hymn the laughter became more uproarious, subsiding gradually, however, as voice after voice joined the drone. The sentinel now walked over to the main entrance and said to some one within the hall:

"I think the general is coming."

"The watchman now resumed his post, and he shivered like a leaf when he saw the general's carriage, which was drawn by four horses, and a man on guard. Several officers came out of the hall and stood listening on the lawn. From the darkness emerged three horsemen, two following a leader, a thickset man, who came somewhat stiffly to the ground, as if fatigued with hard riding. To the one who sprang to the bridle he said curtly:

"See the horse well rubbed down, and in half an hour feed him with corn."

Then to his two followers: "Look to your horses first, and to yourselves afterward. Be ready in an hour."

The chief officer now stepped forward and said:

"You will surely stop the night, excellency? Everything is prepared."

"No. Did my order to stay the execution of Wentworth reach you in time, Colonel Portlock?"

"Yes, excellency. I would not have ventured to execute him without your sanction, although the death sentence was the unanimous finding of the court martial."

"The sentence was just. It may yet be carried out, or it may prove that the Lord has other use for him. Lead the way, William."

General Cromwell gave no greeting to the different groups as he passed them, his heavy riding boots swish, swishing against each other as he followed Colonel Portlock into the hall. He strode awkwardly, like a man more accustomed to a horse's back than a floor. The colonel led him into the great dining room, one end of which was occupied by a shattered window, while the other was crossed by a gallery, and above all, very dim in the feeble illumination of two candles and some smoky torches, could be distinguished the knobs and projections of a timbered roof.

The vast room was almost completely bare of furniture, with the exception of a high backed carved chair, which doubtless belonged to it, and a stout oak table taken from some other part of the house, replacing the long hospitable board that had witnessed many a festive gathering, but which had been used for firewood by the troopers. The general gazed about the ample apartment for a moment, as one who had never seen it before, estimating his bearings with the shrewd eye of a practical soldier; then he pushed the table until it stood lengthwise with the room, instead of across, as before; glanced at the gallery and table, as if making some computation regarding their relative positions, drew up the chair and seated himself, setting the two candles by the edge farthest from him.

"His Captain Hunt arrived with his prisoner?"

"Yes, excellency. He came at sunset."

"Is he sure of his man?"

"He appears to be so, sir."

"Were any papers found on him?"

"Yes, excellency."

"The other prisoner, Wentworth, is little more than a youth, I am told."

"He is very young, excellency."

"How came he to be set on an important outward post that night?"

"There was danger of attack, and I placed him there of deliberate purpose. He was most reluctant to go, making one excuse and then another, saying he was ill, and what not. For more than a month he has been under suspicion of communicating with malcontents, although we had no direct proof. He had been seen stealing away from the domain of Lord Huntly, the chief of

A BAD DISORDER

In the fall of 1895 I contracted that fearful disease, blood poisoning. It gained such headway that I was forced to resign my position and seek relief at Hot Springs. After spending all the means I had I went to Memphis. In less than three weeks I was in a hospital, and after nine weeks of suffering I was discharged as cured. In less than a month every bone in my body seemed to be affected and felt as if they would break at the least exertion. Again I was compelled to resign, and I returned to the hospital for a seven weeks stay. When I came out I was advised to try farming. When I first went on the farm I prevailed on the only first who handled drugs to get me one dozen bottles of S. S. S. At that time both of my hands were broken out with blisters and I was covered with boils and sores. In the meantime my druggist had gotten two dozen bottles of S. S. S. for me and I began its use, and after taking the thirteenth bottle not a sore or boil was visible. R. R. POWELL, East 9th St., Little Rock, Ark.

Of all human diseases, Contagious Blood Poison is the most hideous and hateful. The victim is tortured with eating ulcers, sores and abscesses, unsightly blotches, eruptions and other symptoms of the miserable disease. S. S. S. has been used successfully for nearly fifty years for Contagious Blood Poison. It contains no mercury, potash or other mineral. Our home treatment book gives all the symptoms of this disease. It's followers, who were attacking him, and ran into the arms of our men, who were watching for him. The attacking party, seeing, as they supposed, an unknown force of rescuers, turned and fled. The night was dark, and the account of what took place is confused, but Wentworth was carried back to Corbillion, tried and condemned for deserting while on duty and holding commerce with the enemy."

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develop into nervous prostration. Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nervine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion. It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs. Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"During the past winter I had two attacks of indigestion which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying many remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nervine the pains went away, and I slept. I am now taking the second bottle, and am very much improved."

HENRY M. SMITH, Underhill, Vt.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, and will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA. A CURE FOR ALL.

Not a Patent Cure-all, Nor a Modern Miracle, But Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception, the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making any undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make but one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a radical cure. They go no further than this, and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial will find that nothing is claimed for it that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medicinal properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It rests the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, giving refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting and resting the stomach, which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

No Trial of Laurence Willis Case Until May.

The trial of Laurence and Louis Willis and James Williams, charged with being implicated in the assassination of Lieut. W. B. Johnston, was called at Cadiz and a special venire of seventy-five men, who had been summoned from Christian county from which to select the jury, reported, but owing to the incense cold weather and the absence of a number of important witnesses, the case was continued, on motion of the commonwealth, until the third day of the next May term of court. The sheriff was ordered to summon another special venire of seventy-five men from Christian county to report on that day, from which the jury will be selected.

They Found the Illinois Central in Good Shape.

A party of railroad officials swooped down on Paducah yesterday afternoon and went over every terminal. They were Mr. L. G. Hawn, general manager of the I. C.; Mr. D. McCourt, superintendent of southern lines and Superintendent J. J. Haven, of the Tennessee division.

Mr. Hawn came in his private car at noon and in the afternoon with Mr. McCourt made up a special train and went over the local terminals to see if every one was doing his duty. He found things running smoothly, and left last night at 7 o'clock for Cairo and the north. Mr. McCourt accompanied him. Mr. Hawn returned on train No. 101 to Fulton.

A Friend's Tribute.

Crofton, Ky., Jan. 31.
THE DEAD MESSENGER.

Death has again visited Crofton, and this time he has entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Milt Mencham and borne away the spirit of their youngest son, Ashton.

So long as time shall last and mankind be blessed with the faculty of Love, will all human kind be prostrated with grief and feel the visitation of Death to some of their dear ones to be a blow from which they can never recover. But for such times of sorrow, God has endowed nature with her own remedy, the power to weep. Tears are nature's balm to soothe and heal a broken heart, and if they are permitted to flow without restraint, the first feeling of unutterable woe will be washed away and then it is that reason returns and points to Christ, the Great Healer, the Good Shepherd, who, when a lamb has gone astray from the fold will seek until he finds it, and when it is found he will place it upon his shoulder and bear it home. We also know that he has said, "I will draw all men unto me," therefore, let us not feel so heart broken and crushed because Ashton has been taken from us, but rather let us feel that death is a release for him, an entrance into a better life.

After thinking of all this and then of Ashton's life, his great heart always overflowing with love for mother, his lifelong love and respect for father, his generosity to his friends and the pleasant smile with which he greeted all whom he met, winning to himself a host of friends, we can but conclude that his life has been conducive of good, that there are those who are better because of his having lived in the world, and to what other end can man live? A FRIEND.

Use Shoffner's Sure Cure

The Great Tonic and Blood Purifier—Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

It is a trite and true saying that the "blood is the life." Now where does the blood come from? Everybody knows, or should know, that it comes from the nutritive elements extracted by the stomach from the food we eat. If the digestive organs do not perform their functions by reason of disease germs, there is no nutrition extracted, and the food might better be thrown in the dump to decay and breed germs in the open air than to remain in the stomach and become a rotten, putrid mass, as it naturally does if there is no digestion. No disease germ can live and find lodgment in a human body that uses the Shoffner's Sure Cure. Price $1.00

What People Say of the Shoffner's Sure Cure.

Paducah, Ky., March 5, 1903.
To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that I was a sufferer with indigestion for five years and could get no relief until I bought one bottle of Shoffner's Sure Cure, and it helped me so much that I took six bottles and it has cured me sound and well, thanks to the Shoffner's Sure Cure.
MRS. JOHN SMEDLEY, 806 S. Third St.

This is to certify that I believe the Shoffner's Sure Cure saved my life. I was not able to sit up in bed when I began taking the remedy. I had such a severe cough I thought I had consumption. Physicians had given me up to die. After taking one bottle I was able to sit up some. After using five bottles I was fully restored to health. I cannot say enough in favor of this wonderful remedy for indigestion.
